Description:

The PAX RSQ Medic Backpack has been specifically developed for professional use in rope, high-altitude, industrial, and alpine rescue operations. Its compact, slim design ensures maximum freedom of movement and a secure fit – even during demanding physical activities and in confined operational environments.

As an ideal backpack for first response, it combines high functionality with well-thought-out ergonomics.

The removable hip belt provides flexible carrying comfort and supports dynamic work during operations. In addition, a winch-compatible handle enables safe lifting and handling in technical rescue scenarios.

The striking colour scheme combined with high-quality reflective elements ensures excellent visibility – even under difficult weather and lighting conditions.

For alpine operations, the backpack features dedicated holders for an avalanche shovel and avalanche probe. An external helmet holder on the front allows quick and easy access to personal protective equipment.

Inside, the PAX RSQ Medic impresses with a modular organisation system. The colour-coded module pouches can be operated with one hand, are equipped with labelling windows, and can be removed for clear equipment organisation and suspended using carabiners.

Additional mesh pockets in the front section provide extra storage space for supplementary equipment and small items.
